Bring Jobs Home and Stop Offshoring Middle Class Jobs

Over the last decade, 2.4 million jobs were shipped overseas and American taxpayers were asked to foot the bill. The Bring Jobs Home Act ends taxpayer write-offs that pay moving costs when companies ship jobs abroad. Roughly 21.5 million jobs are at risk of being offshored, endangering our economic growth and billions in wages for middle class families across the country. Below is a DPCC projection for jobs at risk of being offshored:

State	Jobs at Risk of Offshoring
Alabama	343,200
